Mrs. Mary Lease Soon to Leave for Colorado,

WHERE SHE WILL RECUPERATE.

Has Been Reading Tolstol and Has Medified Her Views on Woman Suffrage-Thinks Topeka is"Heavenly."

A JOURNAL reporter called on Mrs. Mary E. Lease last evening. Mrs. Lease does not look as if she had passed through a severe spell of sickness. Her eyes are just as bright and her conversation just as lively and vigorous as ever. Her right hand is however, almost useless and she writes with difficulty, the fingers being in a cramped condition resulting from rheumatism.

Her son Charles, who looks very much like his brilliant mother is with her. They are inseparable and she speaks of him with evidence of the fondest admiration. Referring to her affiction she sald: "I tried to use crutches but I found that my crippled hand prevented me from getting around that way and Charley was my crutch, but now I am able to get around without his assistance." "I have been a very sick woman," she continued, "though I know they tell me I don't look as if I had been ill. almost got so near the gates that I could look through, but I am feeling much better now. I am glad to get to Tepeka. It is a beautiful place—I might say the most beautiful town in Kansas, and I have found no place in the United States that I like better. I have just returned from a ride around the city and it was just heavenly.'

"Have you heard of the assassination of the president of France?" asked the Why, no; I had not heard it," and

Mrs. Lease's manner indicated surprise. The reporter told her briefly of the oc-

"Well," she said after a moment's thought, "they are on the brink of a volcano over there as well as here. It is awfull terrible!"

What do you think of the suffrage agitation?" asked the reporter, changing The silver-tongued orator hesitated. She seemed to be debating in her mind what answer she should give.

"Well," she responded, I have been a very earnest worker for the emancipation of woman all my life. I have lately been reading Tolstoi's wonderful book 'The Kingdom of God is J. N. Within You.' He was a wonderful man. fornia. I consider him as much inspired as the spostles. I confess that it has made a change in some of my views. Yes, it has made a change in me. Count Tolstol advocates only the most peaceable methods | Chicago, to remedy existing evils and I stand with him there for I have always abhorred the shedding of blood. But the consti-tution of the United States provides for war-terrible bloody war, and if woman is enfranchised she must subscribe to that constitution and admit that she favors murder; only people who would look

You do not mean to say that you are not in favor of woman suffrage? "No," continued Mr. Lease, "I did not say that. I only said my views have been somewhat changed. When woman is enfranchised, she will have to go down herself in order to bring man up "Did you mean all you said in your telegram to the Populist state convention?" asked the reporter, again changing the subject. Yes, I meant it, but you must remember that there were three propositions. The first was anti-fusion, the second was a suffrage plank, and the third was a clean, honest man at the head of the As Mrs. Lease said "clean, honost man," she dropped one eyelid in an expressive way. "Now, I do not want to say another thing about politics, so don't ask me any more political questions.

"I am anxious to get to work. I should not be here now if I had not been anxious to be at the last meeting of the board of charities. I am on my way to Canon City, Colo., to try the Hot Springs. and I want to see Warden McLister of the state penitentiary of Colorado. There is a bond of sympathy between us, for they tried to get rid of him too and Governor Waite telegraphed to him, after the trouble, that he was reinstated, and he replied: 'Reinstated. nothing-I have never been out;" and Mrs. Lease laughed merrily.

"What do you think of the women asking the Democrats for a suffrage

"Oh, that is just splendid!" enthusiastically responded the disciple of Tol-stoi. "I hope they will go into that convention 10,000 strong and just capture it. The Democrats won't complain then that they have been slighted."

THE CITY WALKS.

Mr. Fulton's Committee Condomned Four Miles Saturday Afternoon. City Councilman J. T. Fulton's street and sidewalk committee is ready to re-Mr. Fulton's report as to sidewalks that should be condemned and rebuilt was accepted as he handed it in at the meeting Saturday and will be recommended for approval at the next meeting of the city ouncil on Monday evening, July 2.

As the report now stands since its re-vision there are condemned for rebuilding about four miles of sidewalk in the entire city. The majority of this is in the central portion where travel is the heaviest. About three-quarters of a mile has been condemned in the First ward, north of the river, about the same amount in the Fifth ward and probably two and one-half miles in the central part of town, most of it being on the west side of Kansas avenue. It the origi-nal report handed in by Sidewalk Inspector Brusman a great deal of walk was condemned in both North and South Topeka, but Mr. Fulton's committee has seen fit on account of the hard times to release much of it and leave it over until next year when times may be better and the sidewalks worse. Lots of the walk that was released was so treated on the promise of the owners to fix it up so it would last through the interim and it is being renewed as rapidly as possible.

The committee also heard a petition from property owners for an order to rebuild three blocks of sidewalk between Tyler and Western avenue on the north side of Third street, and for a stretch of three blocks at the corner of Eighth and Lime streets in the eastern part of the city. There will probably be other petitions of a similar nature to follow so All the rebuilt sidewalk will be of brick with the exception of some that will be relaid in asphaltum. The last sidewalk ordinance provides that as fast as walk is rebuilt it shall be of brick, asphaltum or stone, the idea being to do away forever with the old wooden walks that cause so much annoyance,

After this matter is settled we shall probably hear very little sidewalk talk for another year.

HE WASN'T CRAZY.

"Hooky Jim" Released From the Charge of Insanity Yesterday Afternoon.

"Hookey Jim" Huston's voice was soft and calm yesterday and his answers careful, while he was on trial for his sanity in Probate Judge Elliott's court. It is a slang expression, but there is none more true, than that Jim is no fool if he does Jim's Topeka record has not been such that it has inspired for him any surprising respect among the police, and they have had so much trouble with him in the past that when he and his everready hook suddenly appeared in Tope-ka last week and refused to be separated except by the united efforts of five of the bravest, Captain Gish concluded that Jim's mental scope was not sufficient to make him safe as a stray, and he had better be locked up in the asylum. So he filed a complaint to that effect.

The trial diew a large crowd. Dr. W. H. Righter was foreman of the jury and the other members were G. E. Lillie, P. H. Gill, W. A. Travis, W. E. Stickel and E. Lundgreen. The first witness was Dr. Gibson and he asked Jim a whole that his hand had been burned off about "You get in jail pretty often don't

"Not so orful often," answered Jim with a bland smile. "What makes you fight so much?" "I nevah fights onless I has to. Ise a peaceful man. If a man walks up to me and tries to smash my nose, which dev tells me is a heap sight flattah now 'an it orter be, Ise gwine to smesh back, an if I has my hook I ginerly gits 'im."

Nobody ventured to deny this and the examination continued. Dr. Gibson was of the opinion that Jim was not insane.

Dr. Eastman and Lindsay and Captain Gish then testified in turn. They could not say that Jim was exactly crazy but all thought be was a dangerous character and should be locked up.

Jim himself was the last witness examined and met all attempts to tangle him into a semblance of insanity with baffling serenity. The jury took about three minutes to deciare Jim sane and he was released under promise that he leave town. Judge Elliott said the trial cost the county $35 and didn't amount to any-

There will be no mistaking its tone. The Germans don't like prohibition, but they would ten times rather have prohibition than woman suffrage."
